LENOIR COUNTY AND PITT COUNTY SCHOOLS
Keeping Students Connected to Remote Learning

GREENVILLE, NC, October 8, 2020—Suddenlink has donated $50,000 worth of iPads to Lenoir County and Pitt County Schools to increase access to virtual classroom opportunities, connectivity, and online curriculum for students. Altice USA, the parent company of Suddenlink, contributed a total of $1 Million impacting 30 school districts as part of its COVID-19 response initiatives to support local communities as they recover from the impact of the pandemic.

“At Suddenlink, we are proud to support the communities we serve and their school districts, who play a critical role in helping to develop the innovators and technologists of tomorrow,” said Bob Lillie, Regional Vice President, Suddenlink.

“Over the past six years, iPads have become an essential learning tool for all 8,700 of our K-12 students. Lenoir County Public Schools, our administrators, teachers and students, appreciate the support of Suddenlink Altice as LCPS works to ensure Lenoir County's youth have the skills they need to be successful in the 21st century. I can assure our friends at Suddenlink Altice that the iPads they so generously donated will be put to good use,” said Brent Williams, Lenoir County Schools Superintendent.

"Businesses like Altice are what make Pitt County great. Pitt County Schools has enjoyed an amazing relationship with local business partners who care about this community. Altice reached out directly to us to offer iPads for our students in need. What a great example," said Dr. Ethan Lenker, Pitt County Schools Superintendent.

Suddenlink is committed to ensuring broadband access for all and understands that now, more than ever, having the right tools to remain connected is just as critical as access itself. With this contribution, Suddenlink hopes students and schools can continue learning in this new, virtual environment.
